...thousands of young men grabbed whatever weapons came to hand — cutlasses, machetes, clubs, bows and arrows — and went around making arrests of people they charged were extremists.

Some were killed by the mob, residents said. Many civilians also are believed killed.

The Islamic extremists fought their way into the military installation and managed to free several militants detained in cells at the barracks, but

...cessfully repelled with heavy human casualty on the terrorists.”

Four soldiers were wounded in the fighting and “hot pursuit” operations by land and air are in progress, he said.

The military believed the insurgents were trying “to boost their depleted stock of fighters” following two weeks of aerial bombardments and ground assaults on forest hideouts and mountain caves along the borders with Cameroon and Chad, said Olukolade.
